

PARKER AGAINST SCATTERED FIELD

Boom for John R. McLean For Vice President.

Marshal Field of Chicago Proposed For Place on Ticket With Parker.

Leading Features of Situation at St. Louis--Plat- form Receiving Serious Consideration From Party Leaders on the Ground--Poll of How Delegates Stand Up to Date.

St. Louis, July 2.—It's Parker against a badly scattered field. If views of delegates, alternates and others interested in the Democratic National convention, now on the scene, are to be taken as a criterion, the nomination of Judge Parker would seem to be assured either on the second or third ballot.

Thus far the Hearst boom has fallen flat and the loyalty of delegations instructed for him is put in question. Bryan's strength thus far is not of a positive character. Unless the Bryan men begin to make a showing in the ante-convention crowds it would seem as though about the only opportunity he would have to attract attention would be by making a speech to stir the gathering.

Tom Taggart of Indiana, arrived last night. Talk concerning the National chairmanship still centers about him. But there is much discussion of Giffey of Pennsylvania, and some of the Gorman men continue to boom August Belmont.

JOHN R. MCLEAN Would Accept Second Place on the Ticket With a Conservative Candidate.

St. Louis, July 2.—John R. McLean, of Ohio and Washington, D. C., is a candidate for the vice presidential nomination. Mr. McLean is not expected in St. Louis, but his closest advisers are now on the ground. Samuel E. Johnson, who holds his proxy as Ohio's representative on the national committee, arrived this morning. He says that Mr. McLean would accept second place on the ticket with a conservative candidate.

PARKER LEADERS Are Claiming Delegates Should Now Devote Their Time Wholly to Sec- ond Place on Ticket.

St. Louis, July 2.—This morning there were opened at the Planters' hotel baskets containing about 25,000 Parker buttons of a large size and 500 mammoth lithograph portraits, which will be used in plastering St. Louis between now and Monday.

"It is all over," declared a half dozen Parker leaders. "The delegates can now devote their time to second place on the ticket." It is secretly told that Judge Parker himself prefers Marshall Field, of Chicago, for vice president.

GROVER Would Not Accept the Nomination on a Silver Platter.

Princeton, N. J., July 2.—Before leaving for his New England cottage, Grover Cleveland told two Princeton friends that he did not want the presidential nomination. "But suppose," remarked one friend, "that the convention nominated you, then nominated a candidate for vice president, adopted a platform and adjourned. Then suppose the nomination was handed you on a silver platter. What would you do?" "I would not accept a silver platter," replied the ex-president, with a very perceptible smile.

WM. J. BRYAN Is to Deliver a Greater Speech Than His Crown of Thorns Effort, Says Populist Senator.

St. Louis, July 2.—Former Senator Allen, of Nebraska, arrived here this morning to attend the Populist party convention on July 4. Speaking of W. J. Bryan, Mr. Allen said: "He is coming on here as a delegate to the Democratic convention and he will be heard from when he arrives. He is going to make a greater speech than any you have ever heard from him. His Chicago speech won't be a marker to the one which he will deliver here."

COMMITTEE MEETING. St. Louis, July 2.—At 10 o'clock this morning the sub-committee of the Democratic national committee was to have met to select John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, as temporary chairman of the convention. Not enough members could be gotten together to do the work and an adjournment was had until 3 o'clock this afternoon, when the matter will be disposed of.

PLATFORM Receiving Serious Consideration by Party Leaders in Interest of Harmony.

St. Louis, July 2.—Longer in advance than usual the platform question is receiving the serious consideration of delegates and others interested in the party's welfare, and it is already evident that there will be a persistent effort to secure an expression of party views which will meet the approval of all factions.

"We must get a pronouncement which will meet the demands of all Democrats," said Representative Clayton, of Alabama, "and I believe it is going to be a comparatively easy matter to accomplish the result."

Other party leaders on the ground expressed themselves in like optimistic manner. But when they entered upon a comparison of views it became evident that there are differences which will have to be smoothed down before the desired result can be secured.

Evidently the principal contention will be over the point as to whether there shall be a specific declaration favorable to the affirmation of the principles enunciated in the platform of 1896 and 1900. There is already strenuous contention as to whether there shall be any reference whatever to those two declarations, and there are many shades of views as to how the subject should be covered.

Delegates who are close to Mr. Bryan want a reaffirmation in terms, but some of them are content to say that while making the reassertion they consider other and newer questions of leading importance, and are willing on that account to give more prominence to them. Others take the position that it would be invidious to mention the Chicago and Kansas City utterances, and urge that it will be sufficient to reaffirm the principles enunciated by all previous Democratic conventions and then pass to the consideration of newer questions. A third class would have all reference to previous party declarations entirely omitted.

Some express the opinion that the preparation of the platform will be left almost entirely to Senator Gorman and Representative Williams, the Democratic leaders in the two houses of congress.

It is generally believed that the character of the platform will have a marked influence upon the presidential nomination, and as only a majority vote is required for its adoption its exact wording will be awaited with much interest.

Mr. John Brisben Walker, of New York, is urging the adoption of a financial plank declaring for a currency so adjusted as to meet all business requirements.

MEDAL Granted 'Way Back in 1864 Has Just Been Received by John Hays, of Wisconsin.

Washington, July 2.—John Hays of Muscoda, Grant county, Wisconsin, has just received the medal of honor which he was granted in the general orders of the navy printed December 31, 1864. He was then serving as coxswain on board the old Kearsarge of Civil war fame and the orders commended him for gallantry in action. Recently he wrote the bureau of navigation that he had just heard of the award and as he is now nearly 72 years old he would like the medal before his death. He proved his identity and the medal together with $100 gratuity has been forwarded to him. The department has a large number of medals similar to this uncalled for, which they would like to deliver to the proper persons.

BONDS Need Not Be Furnished by a Surety Company, According to Judge Dil- lon—Law Unconstitutional.

Columbus, O., July 2.—In the common pleas court Judge Dillon held, in an unofficial manner, that the Crafts law requiring surety company bonds in court cases, is unconstitutional. The law as passed this winter, after a big fight, provides that bonds in court cases and of persons acting in a fiduciary capacity, shall be furnished by surety bond companies. The question came up in the case of John W. Haun against the E. B. Lannan company, in which the attorney for the plaintiff, F. S. Monnett, made application to the court for the $1,200 that had been granted his client during the last term.

The case is now in the circuit court on appeal, but he made application under an old law, passed in 1855, to the effect that the money could be secured while the case was yet in a higher court if a bond to the amount of the judgment and interest would be filed with the clerk.

The court conceded this law, and when Mr. Monnett asked the court if he would accept a personal bond, Judge Dillon declared that the law requiring security bonds was void, and that the common pleas court would always accept personal or individual bonds.

Later in speaking of the position he had taken, Judge Dillon said that the attempt to deny any citizen the right to choose the character of bond he wishes to furnish is clearly unconstitutional since it interferes with his personal rights.

The Japs have administered a severe blow to the further advance of Russian nomenclature.

In Port Arthur Are Closed

ALL ABLE BODIED MEN ARE SENT TO TRENCHES

An Assault from Landside is Thought to be Imminent.

FIGHTING IN KOREAN STRAITS.

Tokio Is Awaiting Anxiously News
From Togo as to the Result of the Naval Battle.

Chifu, July 2.—(Bulletin.)—A report from Port Arthur this morning has it that the Russian authorities there have closed all the shops in town and sealed the doors. It is further reported that the last of the non-combatants, including every able-bodied man, have been sent out to the trenches. It is evident that a full assault from the land side of the city is thought to be imminent.

Tokio, July 2.—Tokio awaits with an unusual degree of expectancy a report from Admiral Togo or Vice Admiral Kamimura as to the result of what is believed here to have been a battle between the Japanese squadron under Kamimura and the Vladivostok cruisers that have raided the Sea of Japan and endeavored to effect a junction with the Port Arthur fleet. Various reports have reached here concerning the reported cannonading, but nothing official has been given out. The navy department expresses the belief that Kamimura sent his torpedo boats against the Russians during the night. It is thought that Kamimura passed the Russian into the Tsu islands in the Straits of Korea and that the Russians ran east and then north and escaped.

Chifu, July 2.—It has been persistently rumored here that the greater part of the Port Arthur fleet has broken through Togo's blockade and effected a junction with the Vladivostok fleet in the Korean Straits and that the combined fleets are now engaging the Japanese fleet in battle just outside of Port Arthur. This statement finds at least partial confirmation in the story told by some Chinese refugees that only four of the Russian vessels were in the harbor at Port Arthur two days ago.

Two vessels which arrived yesterday tell of a battle going on in which the Japanese force engaged consisted of two battleships and four cruisers. The Russian ships were not visible to either vessel, but as the Japanese were keeping up a heavy fire and were several miles from the harbor mouth it is concluded that the Russians are certainly outside of the harbor and making another attempt to smash Togo's fleet. No definite news has been received from the peninsula, but there are vague rumors that the Russians have made several sorties in which, although considerable loss was inflicted upon the attacking forces, the beleaguered garrison gained no material advantage.

A NAVAL FIGHT.

Chifu, July 2.—What may be a decisive naval engagement was in progress at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon midway between Chifu and Port Arthur.

The steamer Chefoo, which has arrived here, passed within 15 miles of the Japanese fleet, consisting of two battleships and five cruisers, all actively engaged. The Russian fleet was not seen, but the distance of the Japanese from land precludes the possibility of any attack on the land batteries. The captain of the Chefoo says he heard a terrific explosion, but was unable to discern whether a Japanese or a Russian ship was affected.

The battle is held here to confirm the Chinese report that only four of the larger warships were at Port Arthur last night.

ANNIHILATION Seems to Stare Kuropatkin in the Face —Surrounded by Japs.

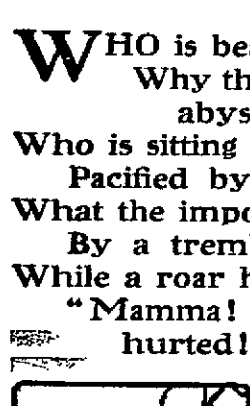

Newchwang, July 2.—News has reached here of heavy fighting at and around Hai Cheng, in which the Japanese were victorious, although they have had to pay dearly for the advantage they have so far gained. The reports received indicate that General Kuropatkin sent a strong force to block the Russian retreat and that this force destroyed a considerable portion of the railroad near Chang Ling Sze. This move effectually cut off the retreat of the Russian army and forced Kuropatkin to make the fight he was seeking to avoid. A strong Japanese army is (Continued on page 2.)

HIS BRIDE Young Husband Thought Had Fallen From Train, But She Appeared Safe and Sound.

Omaha, Neb., July 2.—Mr. and Mrs. George Alden, who were married at Toledo, O., Thursday, and who were on their way to Greeley Center, Neb., to spend their honeymoon, met with a strange experience yesterday. When the Northwestern train on which they were passengers arrived at Missouri Valley, Mrs. Alden went into another car. In a few minutes the train pulled out for Omaha, and Mr. Alden sat impatiently awaiting his wife's return. He went through the train, and she was nowhere to be found; neither the conductor nor porter had seen her. All sorts of wild fears assailed the mind of the young husband. He finally convinced himself that when stepping from one car to another she had fallen off the train.

Beating himself with anxiety, he came on to Omaha. The moment he alighted from the train a telegram was handed to him. It was from his wife. It told him that at Missouri Valley she had gone into another sleeper; that the sleeper had been switched to another train, and that she had been carried, against her will, to a little station up toward Sioux City, where, without hat or wraps or purse, she was waiting to hear from him. Mr. Alden arranged for transportation for his bride to Omaha, and in the afternoon the bride and groom threw themselves into each other's arms at the Union Station here and wept for pure joy.

Denver, July 2.—The Fidelity Savings Association has gone into the hands of a receiver. Liabilities are placed at $1,000,000, and Attorney J. C. Helm has been made receiver. F. M. ### REFUSED To Grant Beach a Marriage License Because of His Past—First Under the Hock Law.

Columbus, O., July 2.—Probate Judge Black took advantage of the provisions of the Hock marriage law and refused a license because the applicant's past life was not irreproachable. Edward Beach asked for a license to wed sixteen-year-old May Green, and in order to secure the court's permit the bride-to-be asked that a guardian be appointed for her so that the necessary consent could be given. Judge Black interrogated Beach about his past, and learned that he had served a workhouse sentence, and that he had just been defendant in a divorce case. He did not think Beach a suitable person for the husband of the girl, and he refused to grant the license. This is the first instance reported where a judge of the Probate court has refused a license under the new Hock law.

TROLLEY WHEEL Of an Electric Car Left the Wire and Crashed Through the Roof Of the Car.

Columbus, O., July 2.—Director of Public Service Immel, one of the city officials who went to Buckeye Lake Thursday to attend the first annual outing of the South Side Business Men's association, reports an accident which occurred to the trolley car on which Fred Siegel and himself left the city about 10 a. m. en route to the lake. A few miles beyond Reynoldsburg the trolley wheel left the wire and the pole flew up while the car was going at a high rate of speed and struck the cross-arm of one of the poles. The wheel was broken off and fell, crashing through the roof at the rear end of the car, striking a woman and scattering splinters from the roof over Messrs. Siegel, Immel and others. Fortunately no one was seriously hurt.

GEN SHERIDAN MONUMENT. Columbus, O., July 2.—Governor Her- rick has appointed Thomas Binckley, of New Lexington. Rt. Rev. D. J. Kennedy, of Somerset, and W. A. Wal- ker, of Somerset, a commission to erect a General Sheridan monument at Somerset.

Blow Fractured Skull of a High- water Man

JAMES THARP TELLS HIS STORY.

And Claims That in Striking Wertz
Over the Head He Acted Wholly in Self-Defense.

Highwater, O., July 2.—Jas. Wertz, who was badly injured in Newark by a blow on the head, is still in a serious condition at his home a half mile from town. Dr. Rutledge of this place who is attending him, is of the opinion that he will recover though his skull is fractured and he has been semi-conscious since the injury. Part of the time though apparently conscious he has been unable to talk. Mr. Wertz is a man of about forty years of age. He has a wife and three children.

Wertz's assailant is James Thorp, an employe of Stephenson's liver barn on South Fourth street, Newark.

When Thorp was seen by the Advocate Saturday afternoon he said that Wertz came to the barn in the afternoon and was partially drunk. He and Thorp engaged in an argument over a proposed watch trade, and Thorp said that as he passed Wertz the latter struck at him. Thorp then struck Wertz who retreated placing his hand on his hip pocket as if to draw a gun. Thorp says he then hit him over the head with the handle of a pitchfork. Wertz left the barn and Thorp has not since seen him. He did not know that Wertz is in a serious condition near Highwater.

TEETH

Knocked From His Mouth, Clothing
Torn Off and Body Roasted by Lightning, But Milligan Will Live.

Nelsonville, O., July 2.—During a terrific hailstorm here Friday afternoon Hugh Milligan was struck by lightning and escaped death by a miracle.

He was standing beneath a grape arbor at his home when the bolt struck a post of the arbor, splintering it and then glanced off, striking Milligan in the back of the head, burning the hair off, knocking his teeth out, badly burning his face, left arm and legs and tearing his hat, clothes and shoes to pieces.

His clothes took fire, but the flames were extinguished by neighbors who hurried to the rescue. Medical aid was summoned and, after hard work, Milligan was resuscitated. The doctor says he will live. Milligan is a machine worker in the coal mines and is noted for his strength.

THREATS

Made by Rejected Lover That He Would Kill Miss Bossert Frightened Her to Death.

Camden, N. J., July 2.—Miss Louisa Bossert died at her home here apparently from fright, after having been threatened by her lover, whom she had rejected. The county officials are looking for the man, who has disappeared.

Benjamin Miller, a real estate operator, by whom the girl was employed, related the circumstances of the death. Ten days ago the admirer entered the office and made a final demand that she become his wife. She refused. He said, it is alleged, "You will have to marry me, if you don't, I will kill you. If I see you with any one else I will kill you."

The girl went immediately into hysterics and remained in that condition until death came.

SPRINGER CASE

A message from Chicago says Saturday.
The demurrer of Warren Springer to the suit brought by Mrs. Elizabeth Beach through Attorney J. A. Coleman was argued before Judge Hanczy yesterday and the plaintiff was permitted to file an amended bill in the case to meet the legal objections of the Springers.

A SATISFACTORY YACHT RACE

[Original]

Royal Leighton had been hanging about Blanche Asche for a long while. Miss Asche gave him little encouragement; indeed, she seemed to be at times bored by his persistency. She was full of mischief and occasionally would give him a bit of hope just to see how crestfallen he would be when she gave him the cold shoulder. Both were rich. Leighton's taste was for horses; Miss Asche's for boats. One day when Leighton had proposed for the tenth time the lady said to him:

"I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll match my yacht Ariadne against your Oneida. If your boat beats mine I'll marry you. If mine beats yours be it understood that you're not to bother me with your propositions ever after."

"But my Oneida is a tub," said Leighton. "I know nothing about yachts. You know a lot about them, and your Ariadne is the fastest boat of her class afloat in American waters."

"It's that or nothing," Blanche replied. "If you accept, I'll send my sailing master to you to arrange the details; if not, I shall consider any future attentions from you as the world would consider an insult from one who has refused to fight."

There was nothing for Leighton but to seize upon this one chance. He agreed to the terms, the best two in three races, sailed under the standard yachting rules. Both yachts were inspected and measured, but this was a mere form, for neither was to give the other any time.

On the day of the first race few knew anything about it, and those who did failed to see much pleasure in prospect for a race between the fleet Ariadne and the commonplace Oneida.

There was a fine breeze to the stake boat, and the Ariadne sailed away from the Oneida, turning the stake half a mile in the lead, but coming back there was much surprise on the part of the spectators to see that the Oneida under a slackening wind gained on her rival, but she did not make up more than half her loss, and the first race was won by Miss Asche.

At the second—a triangular race—there was scarcely any wind at all. The spectators speculated as to how the Oneida could get over the water, while the Ariadne was almost becalmed, but it was generally supposed that the sailor of the former took advantage of a tide current. The Oneida drew away from her rival on the second leg of the triangle and kept most of what she had gained on the third leg, coming in a full minute ahead.

Miss Asche's heart stood still. Before the third race was sailed the captain of the Ariadne asked permission to make a personal inspection of the Oneida. It was granted, but if the inspector was looking for some propelling machinery he found none. Indeed there was no need of such an inspection, for a representative of each owner sailed on the opposing yacht. The captain went away apparently satisfied, but puzzled.

There were a few persons on the dock early in the day before the third race who saw members of the Oneida's crew go aboard and noticed that when they walked it was with a stiff gait, while one of them had a stomach on him disproportionate to his limbs. But those witnesses had nothing to do with the yachts or the races.

The third race was to and from a stake boat with the wind on the quarter. The winning of the second race by the Oneida had excited an interest in the last trial, and the course was covered by yachts and pleasure boats. Of course no one knew of the stake or there would have been no room on the water for the contestants. If the second race was a surprise, the third was a marvel. The Oneida, without carrying either the sail or having the excellent lines of her rival, had no sooner got away under an eight knot breeze than she began to draw ahead, turning the stake a quarter of a mile in advance. On the way back the breeze lulled, and with the lull the relative speed of the Oneida increased. She crossed the line three-eighths of a mile ahead of the Ariadne amid shouts of the spectators and barking of yachts' cannon.

There was suspicion that, after all, there had been fraud perpetrated in the race, but Miss Asche's representative said that he had been on deck every minute of every race and could have detected it if practiced. Mr. Leighton dined with the loser on the evening of the last race, and after dinner they retired to the library, where he claimed his reward. Miss Asche confessed with her head on his bosom that she had dreaded lest she should win. Nevertheless she was chagrined that her yacht should have been so ignominiously beaten.

"Don't distress yourself about that, sweetheart," said her lover. "Tomorrow I will give you a sail in her and show why she was beaten."

When they were aboard the Oneida Leighton gave the crew orders to line up on deck. From the fat man's stomach he took the parts of a pump, while the rest pulled sections of piping from under their trousers legs. These were taken to the keelson, a cork taken from a hole in the stem and one from the stern. When the apparatus had been put together, water was sucked noiselessly from the forehead hole and ejected from the one at the stern.

"I got the idea," said Leighton "from a marine animal that propels itself in the same fashion."

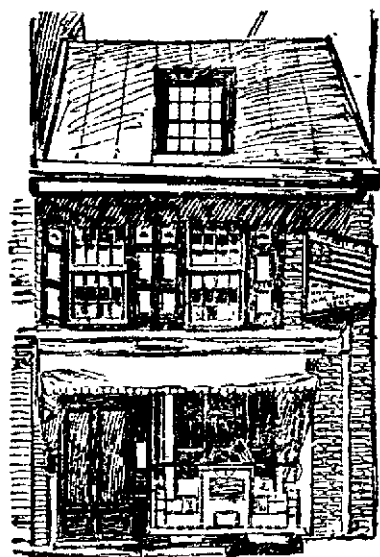

Miss Asche was satisfied. She had lost the race, as she had secretly desired, and her boat was still her pride.

The First Flag of Liberty

BETSY ROSS.

A QUIET house, a quiet street,
A needle and a thread,
A scissors and a square of blue,
Some strips of white and red,
And slender hands that deftly stitched
The shining stars across—
That was the flag of Liberty
That made by Betsy Ross.

PHILADELPHIA HOME OF BETSY ROSS.

THOUGH Father Time has worn to rags
The emine robes of kings
And left the guns of war to rust
Among forgotten things,
Though crowns and scepters at his touch
Have turned to dust and dross,
Yet not a broken stitch has marred
The work of Betsy Ross.

IN stately hall and lowly home
This day its colors wave,
The shelter of the world's oppressed,
The beacon of the brave.
Let glory on the nation's shield
Among the stars emboss
The thread, the needle and the name
And fame of Betsy Ross.

THE FLOWER OF LIBERTY.

WHAT flower is this that greets the morn,
Its hues from heaven so freshly born?
With burning star and flaming band
It kindles all the sunset land.
Oh, tell us what its name may be!
Is this the flower of Liberty?
It is the banner of the free,
The starry flower of Liberty!

IN savage nature's far abode
Its tender seed our fathers sowed.
The storm winds' rocked its swelling bud,
Its opening leaves were streaked with blood,
Till, lo, earth's tyrants shook to see
The full blown flower of Liberty!
Then hail the banner of the free,
The starry flower of Liberty!

BEHOLD its streaming rays unite,
One mingling flood of braided light—
The red that fires the southern rose,
With spotless white from northern snows—
And, spangled o'er its azure, see
The sister stars of Liberty!
Then hail the banner of the free,
The starry flower of Liberty!

OUR COUNTRY'S FLAG.

RUN up the flag on high!
Its stars shall light the sky!
Beneath it, stand!
Let all its folds of light
Proclaim from morn till night
This is the flag of right
And fatherland.

FROM shore to mountain crag
Let all salute the flag
That makes men free!
Oh, may it ever wave
Above the true and brave,
A land without a slave
From sea to sea!

OUR country ever one
As long as shines the sun,
One flag we love—
A flag the furnace tried,
A flag for which men died,
The Stars and Stripes our pride!
Praise God above!
—Edward A. Rand in Zion's Herald.

Presidents Who Died on the Fourth.
Three presidents of the United States died on July 4. They were Adams, Jefferson and Monroe. Adams was disturbed by the ringing of bells and booming of cannon and was asked if he knew what caused the celebration. "Oh, yes," he replied: "it is the Fourth of July. God bless it!" In the course of the day he said, "It is a glorious day!" Jefferson was breathing his last at the same moment and with almost his final breath asked if it were not the Fourth.

Money Spent For Fireworks.
Three-quarters of all the fireworks imported into the United States each year are used on the Fourth of July and thereabout. The others pop and bang and raise the mischief in the southern states during the Christmas holidays and around Mardi Gras time.

The ENGAGEMENT OF DOROTHY

[Copyright, 1934, by T. C. McClure.]

There were only three of us sitting in the club when the major came in. I never knew why he was called major, except, perhaps, because his name was Miner, and that he had a sort of military bearing. I asked him about it once. "Didn't you ever hear the story," he said, "of how General Williamson got his title?"

I said that I had never heard it. "Well," continued the major, "he was a general ticket agent for the Chicago and South Pacific railroad."

With which evasive answer the major turned to his paper and refused to converse further on the subject.

As I said, there were only three of us in the club when the major came in. He seemed nervous, and called the boy to bring him some hot buttered rum. The night was bitterly cold, and Channing, Wilton and I had been waiting about, wishing that the storm would cease. It did not, so we waited longer. Then the major came.

"Hello," he said, and passed us to give his order at the desk. Then he sat down at a table and began to write rapidly. He called the boy again, and asked that he bring for a messenger. The messenger appeared. The major handed him a note and some coins and told him to take a cab.

"Must be in a hurry," suggested Channing.

"I am," said the major, "for if that note doesn't get where it belongs within an hour it will be all up with Kemble."

He sat down with us and began stirring his rum thoughtfully.

"Great stuff, rum," he said. "I've been thinking for a long time that I'm going to spend my declining years down on the cape somewhere. I shall have a thatched cottage, some nasturtiums growing in a wrecked dory on the lawn, and I shall sit on the beach, dressed in a sou'wester and oilskins, scanning the horizon for incoming loggers. Each logger will be laden with hot buttered rum."

The major sipped his drink meditatively.

"You fellows want to hear a love story?" he asked.

"Yes, let 'er go," said Wilton.

We settled back in our chairs, prepared to listen, for it was an unusual thing for the major to volunteer a story of any kind.

"I shan't tell you the end of the story till the boy gets back," he began. "Is the boy the hero?" inquired Channing.

"Not exactly, but he bears an important message to the hero," said the major.

Then he went on, and none of us interrupted him for some minutes. He talked slowly and picked his words carefully.

"It was this way," he began. "There was a man once who was a lawyer, and he had a ward who had been left to his care by her father when he died. The lawyer was a bachelor, and he took the girl under his care and managed her property and sent her to school and to college and abroad and wherever he thought she might grow to be the woman her father had hoped she might be. Then when she came home to live he fell in love with her. That's all there is of the first chapter."

The major picked up his glass and held it between the light and his eyes. "Great stuff, hot buttered rum on a cold night," he commented.

Then he went on. "This man found that he was forgetting to do his work. He was thinking about her most of the time, and he began to lose confidence in his ability to win cases. He lost some that he should have won. Then he began to reason with himself, and he suddenly discovered that he couldn't do anything more anyhow till he had told her he loved her and found out what she thought about it. Mind you, he was old enough to be her father."

"So one night he went to her house and was prepared to tell her what he wanted to. They sat together before the library fire. Then the man began to talk. 'I have thought, Dorothy,' he said, 'that it is about time you were married.' Then the young woman came over and laid her hand on his shoulder. 'I have thought so, too,' she said.

"The man went on talking. 'Is there any one you care for particularly?' he asked. 'Yes,' she said, 'but we quarreled after we had been engaged two days, and I know I ought to have told you about the engagement; but, Uncle Billy, honest, I wanted to keep it to myself for a little time yet.'"

"Then the man tried to tell her how much he loved her, but somehow he couldn't. He just asked her who the man was that she had become engaged to. She told him, and told him, too, that the quarrel didn't amount to anything and that she wanted him to come to luncheon with you, Gregory," unchanged; hogs 8,000, 5c higher; sheep 2,000, steady, unchanged.

The major stopped.

"What do you mean?" I asked. "Wait till the boy comes back," said the major.

Presently the boy returned with a note. The major opened it and read it. Then he handed it to me. This was what it said:

My Dear Major—Will meet you and Mr. Gregory with my mother and Miss Gordon at the Touraine at 1 tomorrow. Thank you for what you have done. Very sincerely,
A. L. KEMBLE.

CONSTIPATION

Is the first step on the road to disease. In its worst form it is a fearful disorder which destroys hope and brings despair and suffering to its victims. It is there for life and anyone afflicted with chronic constipation? Like a vampire it fastens on the system, poisons the blood, deranges the liver and saps the strength and vitality of the sufferer. Pleasures and rational enjoyments are not for him. His life is dragged out in a miserable round of despondent days and sleepless nights. Constipation if not checked in time results in Piles, Blood Poison, Rheumatism, Bright's Disease, Apoplexy and Heart Disease. Are you a sufferer from constipation? Check it! There is a way. Thousands have found it in

The condition of the bowels, stomach and digestive system depends upon the state of the blood. Vitona contains a certain ingredient discovered by a German chemist, which destroys the disease germs and keeps the blood in a healthy and active state. It is the action of this chemical that gives Vitona its peculiar power in the curing of constipation, whether mild or chronic. Get a bottle today. Price $1.00. said to have advanced from Shintung-cheng to Hai Chong, while another is said to be marching along the line of the railroad in the same direction, thus placing Kuropatkin between three forces, any one of which, according to the reports at hand, is strong enough to give his army a good fight, while the three combined make it seem almost impossible that he should be able to escape a disastrous defeat, it not complete annihilation.

KAMIMURA

May Be Asked to Resign for Allowing Skrydloff to Slip Out.

Tokio, July 2.—Considerable interest was aroused by the circulation of a report that the Vladivostok squadron, which it was understood had been cornered by Admiral Kamimura and forced to fight, had again succeeded in eluding the Japanese fleet, which had been advised of its whereabouts and was watching for it. This report was caused a great deal of sharp criticism of Admiral Kamimura, whose laxity in permitting Skrydloff's fleet to escape from the blockaded harbor and attack Japanese transports in the straits was sharply condemned before. Now it is believed the admiral's resignation will be called for.

TO KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM.

Is the Only Possible Way of Having An Effective Cure.
If you see a woman or a man with luxuriant glossy hair, you may be sure neither has dandruff to amount to anything. In nearly every case where women and men have thin brittle hair, they owe it to dandruff. There are hundreds of preparations that "claim" to cure dandruff, but not one but Newbro's Herpicide tells you that dandruff is the result of a germ burrowing into the scalp, and that permanent cure of dandruff and its consequent falling and baldness, can only be had by killing the germ; and there is no other preparation that will destroy that germ but Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

CASKET

Was Lowered Into the Grave While the Mt. Vernon City Band Softly Played "Dixie."

Mt. Vernon, O., July 2.—The remains of Daniel Decatur Emmett, the author of the song "Dixie," who died June 25, were laid to rest in Mount View cemetery at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The funeral was in charge of B. P. O. E. Lodge, No. 140, at G. Field, marshal.

The religious service was that of the Episcopal church, conducted by Rev. W. E. Hull, whose remarks about the dead man were principally concerning his authorship of the song, "Dixie." Emmett's home life, Mr. Hull said, was an edifying one. He never retired without prayer nor sat down to a meal, no matter how scanty, without giving thanks to God.

The casket was lowered into the grave while the Mount Vernon City band played softly the music that Emmett had written and which made him famous.

FOR YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Roberman Lived Happily—A Quarrel Arose and a Double Tragedy Followed.

Hammond, Ind., July 2.—Grieving over the death of his wife, who committed suicide because he had quarreled with her, Moses A. Roberman, a wealthy fruit dealer of Madison, Wis., shot and killed himself in the home of his brother-in-law, Jacob Frank, in Indiana Harbor, a fashionable resort near this city. Last Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Roberman, who had been married 25 years, had a trifling quarrel in Madison. She left the house, as Mr. Roberman thought, to go to her relatives in another part of the city. When she did not return at night he was alarmed, but was dumfounded to get a telegram from the Sherman House of Chicago about midnight saying that his wife was dying. She had arrived in Chicago at dinner time and driven immediately to the hotel, where her nephew, Abraham Frank, is manager of the College Inn. She was shown to a room and later the house servants were startled to hear groans there. They found on breaking open the door that she had taken laudanum. She fought the house physicians, who tried to save her, and breathed her last just before her husband arrived with their adopted daughter, Miss Laura Roberman. At the coroner's inquest, both were prostrated.

Jacob Frank, the dead woman's brother, importuned Roberman to spend the night with him in his summer home in Indiana Harbor. After arrangements for the funeral of his wife had been made Roberman took a walk and purchased a revolver. On his return to the residence he excused himself, went to his room and shot himself dead.

This afternoon in Oakwood cemetery one grave was made to hold the bodies of Roberman and his wife.

SOMERSET

Without a Municipal Body Either to Enact or Enforce Laws—Lack of Harmony.

The village of Somerset is without a municipal body to either enact or enforce laws. For some time there has been a lack of harmony in the village council, and matters have been brought to a crisis by the resignation of a majority of the members. At the present time there are but two members who have not resigned, but it is possible that they may follow the others and "quit the job." There also appears to be some disorder in the municipal affairs of Junction City. Several members of the council, city clerk and street commissioner have filed their resignations, and Rev. W. H. Price, mayor of the last named village, is thinking very seriously of resigning.—Thornville News.

WOMAN'S SYMPATHY

Is Proverbal—Newark Women No Exception.

How much we owe to the sympathetic side of womankind. When others suffer they cheerfully lend a helping hand. They tell you the means which brought relief to them that you may profit by their experience. Read the testimony given here by a Newark woman:

Mrs. B. Donahue, 218 North Fifth street, says: "For quite a long time my kidneys were very much affected and I had a heavy feeling across the lower part of my abdomen, which made me miserable. Pain across the small of my back was often so acute that I was hardly able to move around and a distressing and annoying urinary weakness accompanied it. A friend of mine, whom by using Doan's Kidney Pills, have been cured of backache, advised me to try them. I took the advice and obtained a box at Crayton's drug store. First the kidneys were stimulated to a healthy and natural action, then the backache and general feeling of depression left me." For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Painless, Natural Childbirth.

Baby's coming into the world should be preceded by a certain preparation on the part of every woman who expects to become a mother. She owes it as a duty to her unborn babe, and to herself, her duty to her unborn babe is to use every means within her power to aid his entrance into the world. Baby cannot help himself in this ordeal, therefore mother must. He has a hard enough time after his arrival, so let us make his coming easy. His health in after life depends greatly upon the manner of his coming. Would you have your child a cripple, or would you have him a tower of strength? Strong men are but grown-up children; a famous surgeon in Vienna is devoting his life-work to the cure of little helpless cripples, deformed by birth; do not allow your child to become a cripple.

Mother's Friend

Is a liniment which will forestall any possibility of accident at birth; that is, it relaxes all the abdominal muscles and tissues, and permits of an easy access to the child. It eases the mother's pain, and so assists nature that when baby comes he starts out in life with a constitution well able to fight life's battles, and to bloom into strong pure manhood that is the comfort and delight of every true mother's heart.

An Outrage for Which the American Consumer Must
"Stand Pat."

At one of the sessions of the Congressional Merchant Marine Commission in Cleveland, James C. Wallace, of the American Ship-Building Company, asserted that steel which cost American buyers $32 a ton in Pittsburgh was delivered at Belfast for $24 a ton. Mr. Wallace said his information came from an assistant sales agent of the Steel Corporation, who gave as a reason for low foreign prices the fact that "they wanted to keep the mills running."

An excellent reason, we should say; but it aroused the celestial ire of Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire, who declared that "if that's so it's an outrage and ought to be remedied."

But Senator Gallinger would fail today to remedy the outrage if he had an opportunity. He would stand by his party and the Dingley tariff against revision on all occasions. This foreign trade is built up at the expense of the American consumer. So far as the Steel Trust is concerned, it has bought and paid for a tariff schedule that promotes its business. The result simply is that the foreigner buys the American product cheaper and the American consumer foots the bill. And for all this the Republican party proclaims that the robbed American consumer must "stand pat."

According to ex-Secretary Root, "the tariff may presently receive revision," but it must be done "at the hands of its friends." This means the trusts and monopolies which are its sole beneficiaries.

OHIO DELEGATES

START FOR NATIONAL CONVENTION AT ST. LOUIS.

May Organize En Route—John R. McLean May Again Be National Committeeman—Columbus Contest.

Columbus, O., July 2—Members of the Ohio delegation will start for the Democratic Merca next Monday morning, and by the time the Big Four train from Columbus to Cincinnati reaches the latter city the entire delegation will be on board, accompanied by a host of friends and a small army of newspaper correspondents. There will be more politics to the square inch on board that train than is often the case, even in connection with national conventions. During the trip the important places on the committee on resolutions, credentials, rules and order of business and permanent organization will be determined upon and the delegation will elect its chairman, who will probably be W. S. Thomas, of Springfield. It is particularly desired that on its arrival at St. Louis the delegation will be a harmonious body and know exactly what it wants to do and how to do it.

There is no doubt about the re-election of Hon. John R. McLean as the Ohio member of the Democratic national committee. Mr. McLean will not say that he is a candidate for re-election, feeling that he has been unusually honored in this connection, but he would gratefully accept another term, and his friends insist that he is entitled to it. There is not likely to be any opposition to him. Indeed, in certain contingencies Mr. McLean may become chairman of the executive committee to manage the campaign. If Gorman should be nominated for president it is believed this would be assured, and there are some other candidates who, in the event of their success, would look upon the same proposition with favor. But whether he becomes chairman of the executive committee or not, Mr. McLean will take a deep interest in the coming contest, and the campaign managers will at all times have the benefit of his counsel and co-operation.

Regarding the contest in the Columbus district, the Lantz faction will undertake to unseat James Foss and Mr. C. F. Gilliam, the delegates elected by the district convention composed of delegates elected by the people at the regular primaries. The contesting delegates are J. C. L. Pugh and C. D. Saviers, and it is understood that ex-Congressman Lantz will present their case before the national committee and the committee on credentials, if it is determined to carry it as far as the latter. The general conviction here is that the contest will not be successful and that the regular delegates will hold their seats.

VAUDEVILLE

TO BE THE BILL NEXT WEEK AT IDLEWILDE CASINO.

The Last Presentation of "A Light-house Robbery" Will Be Given Tonight.

Manager W. D. Harris, of Idlewilde Park, has determined to please the patrons of the Casino at whatever price. There has seemed to be a general sentiment prevalent for some time that a vaudeville show at the Casino would be more pleasing than the dramatic productions of a stock company, and in accordance with this idea Mr. Harris has secured the best class vaudeville that can be gotten for next week, beginning Sunday afternoon. The bill will include Jansen & Co., illusionists; Rena Arnold in monologues; Ernest Wall, of Newark, tenor soloist; the Adams musical act, and a "rube" sketch by Jones and Watson.

"A Lighthouse Robbery" will be the bill tonight.

Bud's
Busy
Fourth

"NOW, ef de fokes des only comes!"

Prophet Isaiah said it to his sister Leona in the tone of one burdened with a great undertaking. Prophet Isaiah Sharn was his full name, but to all the plantation he was "Aunt Viney's Bud."

A slim, scrawny lad was Isaiah, blacker than darkness, with big eyes, bigger feet and numberless plaits of woolly hair, each wrapped close with white cotton strings standing out all over his head.

Leona was smaller and blacker, with longer plaits and more of them, though in her case they were embusied in a "head rag" of faded lawn. The two stood in a big log cabin, whitewashed, swept and garnished, with green boughs in the high fireplace, empty save for two barrels across one corner, holding up a long plank to form a rude counter.

On top sat cracked dishes full of cheap red and yellow candy, raisins, almonds and crumbly sweet cakes. At one end was a water bucket half full of lemonade, at the other a big, round, green striped Florida watermelon.

For at that season, late June, melons are not ripe in middle Tennessee. Prophet Isaiah was glad of it. He said to Leona, tiptoeing to thump the upper rim: "Lissen at dat? Dis yere fat man ees 'me half a dollar, but he's sho' knee high to er hoppergrass an' gwine fetch de dimes ev'ry time. Niggers ain't done taste watermelon sence las' fall; dey be plim skarted when dey git the smell of hit."

"DOES YOU BECKON YOU GIT RED ER ALL DAT STUFF?"

"Better not let 'um see hit 'twell dey done buyed all de res'. Put hit down dar on de fio', right up in de corner," Lee said sagaciously, adding, after a minute, "Does ya reckon, sho' 'nough, we'll make 'nough to en'y 'we in de circus?"

"Yes-ir-ee-bob, an' buy er flag an' er ginger cake an' fir crackers too. I tell you, Lee, I'm gwine make you 'member dis Fo'th er July long as you lib."

"Humph! I 'members all on 'um anyway," Lee said, tossing her turbaned head. "Dat de time we all was sot free."

The prophet looked at her in deep reproach, saying as he ambushed the melon:

"Well, suh, you is ignoant! Why, gal, don't you know no better'n dat? Fokes keeps de Fo'th er July 'cause hit's de day ole Missus Columbus he come drib'n long an' skivered dis country, an' fotch all de niggers yere to work hit. De sotfin' free come way back yonder 'bout Christmas time."

"Des so hit happened hit don't matter when," Lee said, whirling about on her hips. "But I wish de fokes would come on. How much we got to make, Bud, 'fore we git circus money?"

Bud knotted his brows. "Lemme see. I had er quarter an' you er nickel—den Mars Joe len' me $3—an' hit's all in dis yere passel er truck 'cep'n' five nickels to make change at de start—'bout looky yonder! Dar come three fokes, seven fokes—run, stan' at de do', Lee, an' tell 'um handy. I got to get up yere 'hine de long counter ready fer sellin'."

Lee's eyes danced as, flinging wide the door, she saw through the clear starlight all the held paths dotted with waving groups. Evidently the plantation, the neighborhood, looked with favor on Bud's speculation and had come bodily this Saturday night to give him countenance and cash.

By twos, by threes, by half dozens, people straggled in. Old or young, women wore light, stiff starched frocks, gay ribbons, strings of shell beads about the throat or in the hair, unwrapped for the occasion and built in to rolls or puffs all over the head. Grown men were likewise spick and span in their Sunday best. Bud's plow-boy mates alone came in everyday dress and trousers, with unkempt, mopy heads.

For awhile men and women stood primly apart in silence or speaking in whispers to their next neighbor. Bud's heart went down to the tips of his ragged boots. It was not thus at grown folks' festivals. He had been to a dozen at least and remembered well their instant furious jollity. If the people thus stood heavily at rest, there would be neither hunger nor thirst, and nobody would buy anything. Instead of taking Lee to the circus, he would miss it himself, besides owing Mars Joe more than a week's wages. It made him sick to think of it, so much so indeed there was no healing in the knowledge that the less he sold the more he must eat.

If only anybody would start the marchin', some big man—Blacksmith Ike, for instance, whose singing could easily be heard for half a mile.

As if impelled by Bud's thought of him the big darker loomed up in front of the counter, peered thirstily into the lemonade bucket, stuck both hands into his pockets that gave out a faint jingle of small coin and said, pretending to frown:

"Hi, nigger! Does you reckon you git red er all dat stuff wid circus an' Fo'th er July bofe er comin'?"

Prophet Isaiah nodded an emphatic yes and whispered eagerly into the blacksmith's ear, motioning as he did so to the corner back of him. Ike listened, a broad grin overspreading his face, and at the end said: "Er whole half er side? Golly, Bud, I'll hab dese niggers twis'n' lek de harrycane was 'hine 'um!"

Next minute he stood between the crowds, shouting "Looky yere! What de matter wid you all? Come yer to Ann' Viney's Bud's festival whar ye see all he done gin fer to take 'is ill sister tu de Fo'th er July, an' den yer stan'n' yere wid yo' fingers in yo' moun's, sayin' 'nothin', doin' 'nothin', buyin' 'nothin'? Come on yere! Who wants to march wid me? My lady gwine to git de fus' dipperful er dat good cool leminade."

A dozen partners crowded instantly upon him. He caught the nearest, a fat auntie weighing nearly 200 pounds. Behind him the other women fell in two and two as slow and heavy he marched around and around droning out the weird, wordless chant.

Quicker, quicker grew the motion; here and there a man sprang into the circle, drew a marcher's arm within his own, or else chose a partner not yet in motion and joined the ranks. The chant got louder, livelier, more inspiring, the strong forms rocked and swayed, the heavy feet fell thunderously in time; all but the merest fringe of folk were in the wild whirl.

Now and then a couple dropped out to eat or drink to Bud's success. But the marching went on without pause or break until 1 o' the clock. Then Ike called out, wiping his dripping brow, "Counter clear, Bud?"

"All but the reasons an'"—Bud said with a grin.

"Fetch on Mistah Fatman den—he'll las' us 'twell'mornin'," Ike said, so planting his big body as to fend off a rush. Slowly, with trembling hands, Bud heaved up the big melon and laid it before the crowd's astonished gaze.

"Broden, sistern," said Ike, "dar you sees de prophet's profit—he's done cleared 'spences an' gut dat lef' ober. Walk up gentlemen, treat yo' ladies; walk up, ladies, treat yo' sels—dime or shoe, an' wuth er dollar I takes a quarter. Who speaks fo' de res'?"

"Me!" "Me!" "Me!" came from all sides, with an under chorus of "why'n't you tote us to de money was all gone?" "Ef I des bud er dime."

Ike ostentatiously whetted a long knife, then sunk it deep in the green crackling rind of the very king of all Florida watermelons.

As the halves fell apart, showing the red heart ripe and luscious, the crowd surged so violently forward as to upset one of the center barrels. In spite of Ike, of the prophet, "Mistah Fatman" crashed to the floor, broke into twenty pieces, was trampled to a red blue under the crowding feet.

Ike looked at it a minute with tragically folded arms, as if to say, "Nigger what done dat better lar low ef he don't wanten git 'quainted wid my two fies."

Lee was sobbing outright, the prophet swallowing hard. His Fourth of July air castles had all toppled down. Not for long, however. Mars Joe had been for two hours a looker on. Now he came in to say, dropping a dollar in the tin cup treasury: "That was a bad break, Bud, but the damage shall not go further. 'Charge it all to me, and, Lee, be sure he spends half the money for you."

"I will dat," said Lee, wiping her eyes, "case he couldn't er had no festibal ef hit hadn't been fer me an' you."—New York World.

The Man
Who Made
The Fourth

HOW many boys are there, or how many adults either for that matter, who know about the man who made the glorious Fourth?

The Continental congress was discussing the subject of the Declaration of Independence. Some of the delegates who had been hot patriots were beginning to cool. John Dickinson of Pennsylvania had been outspoken for liberty, but one night his wife said to him from beneath the shadow of her nightcap, "Johnny, if you have anything to do with this independence business you'll be hanged, and you'll leave a young and attractive widow."

John Dickinson went back to the hell of congress next day and spoke against the resolution. The friends of the

"RIDE WITH FIRE AT YOUR HEELS."

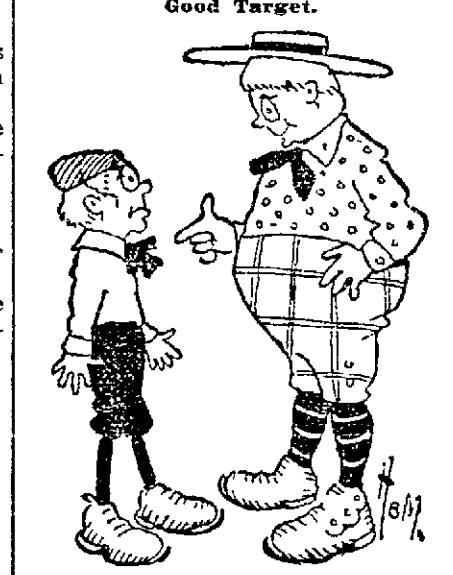

Declaration saw defeat in sight. The time was approaching for a vote. Caesar Rodney, a Delaware representative and an advocate of the measure, was absent and eighty miles away. McKean, another Delaware delegate, resolved that the absent friend of liberty should reach the house in time to cast his vote. During the heat of the debate McKean stole quietly out of congress, secured the best horse that Philadelphia afforded and found a volunteer to ride him. "Ride with fire at your heels and bring Rodney here," said McKean. "The life of a nation hangs in the balance."

The man rode as though the dweller in the abode of fire was at his heels. He covered the eighty miles and killed two horses in doing it, but he sent Caesar Rodney to Philadelphia in time to vote "yea," and the Fourth of July was "made."

No one knows to this day the name of liberty's messenger, but a little thing like the lack of a name should not stand in the way of some patriotic poet who feels stirred to pay a tribute to "The Man Who Made the Fourth."—Chicago Evening Post.

The God of Firecrackers.
There is supposed to be a giant devil of a brilliant red in the mountains of western China, at the sight of whom men grow faint with fear. A man who lived about 3,000 years ago of the name of Leddien found that the banging of firecrackers would frighten him away; hence Leddien is the god of firecrackers. All the red firecrackers are intended to be used to frighten away the red devil, while the green and yellow ones are offerings to Leddien. From the simple little firecracker was gradually evolved the destructive cannon, which was used by the Chinese in their war with the Mongols A. D. 1232. It was introduced into Europe about 1540. Thus we owe to the Chinese the invention of the most useful article of warfare in the world.

MRS. VAN DINE

WANTS HER BANDIT SON'S TWO REVOLVERS.

Former Licking County Woman Asks Chicago Court to Permit Her to Have Boy's Property.

Chicago, July 2.—Mrs. Sophia Van Dine has applied to the probate court to be appointed administratrix of the estate of her son, Harvey Van Dine, the car barn bandit, who, with his pals, Marx and Niedermeier, was hanged.

Mrs. Van Dine wants possession of the murderous magazine guns which figured in the cold-blooded slayings by the bandits of innocent and unsuspecting men.

She sets forth that Harvey Van Dine's estate consists of $200 worth of wearing apparel, two Colts magazine guns, and one gold-mounted revolver. These revolvers, she declares, are now in the custody of the clerk of the criminal court. She asks for papers of administration that she may secure possession of the guns.

The Van Dine formerly lived in Licking county, Ohio, and shortly before her son's trial, Mrs. Van Dine went to Newark to secure evidence. In the Van Dine trial Denis V. Speer, of Newark, was an important witness.

Rev. Schindel, under whose supervision the camp will be, has had over 700 boys in his several camps and has never met with an accident. To help create a camp fund, the boys have arranged for a social to be given next Friday evening on the lawn adjoining the parsonage, No. 147 Hudson avenue. Both sides of the street will be used. The bill of fare will be genuine turtle soup, ice cream, cake and coffee, all for 25 cents.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. ## THE BELL WHICH PROCLAIMED AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE JULY 4, 1776.

Next to the original copy of the Declaration of Independence the old Liberty bell of Philadelphia is doubtless America's most treasured relic of Revolutionary times. On July 4, 1776, the bell proclaimed the independence of the American colonies. It received its historic crack while being tolled at the funeral of Chief Justice John Marshall in 1835. The bell is now at the St. Louis exposition.

CELEBRATION OF FOURTH

Big Programs at Idlewilde and Buckeye Lake Parks—Mayor Crilly Will Enforce the Misdemeanor Ordinance Which Prohibits Sale or Firing of Dynamite Crackers Etc.

The Fourth of July will be appropriately celebrated in Newark Monday. Although there has been no organized effort made along these lines.

At Idlewilde Park there will be something going on all day, including continuous vaudeville in the afternoon and an evening performance in the Casino, two ball games and other amusements. At 10 o'clock in the evening the most gorgeous fireworks ever seen in Newark will be given. The fireworks display at Buckeye Lake Park will be given at 8 o'clock.

Mayor Crilly said Saturday morning that a large number of extra policemen would be put on duty Monday with a view of enforcing the section of the misdemeanor ordinance as applied to fireworks. This section prohibits anyone to sell, offer for sale or ignite with the purpose of firing, or have in his possession any fire cracker commonly known as the "dynamite cracker," or any cracker larger than two inches in length, or to sell or offer for sale any pistol or revolver known as the "toy pistol," designed to shoot blank cartridges, or to sell or have in his or her possession any cane torpedo or instrument or device designed to explode blank cartridges, or to place on the rails of any street railway or traction line any substance whatever that can be exploded by a car passing over it.

Any person found violating any part of this ordinance, the Mayor adds, will be promptly arrested and locked up.

The village of Hebron has arranged a big celebration for Monday.

There will be two ball games Monday afternoon at the T. M. C. Athletic field. Details are given in another column.

SNYDER

HAS REGAINED HIS OLD-TIME PITCHING FORM.

In the Lancaster Game Friday Afternoon He Was Invincible—Newark Was Seven to Four.

Letty Snyder appears to have regained his old form and is pitching the kind of ball at Newark which made him the idol of Newark baseball fans last season. The last couple of times he has been in the box the heady player has seemed to have everything which goes to make a successful pitcher, speed, curves and good control.

On Friday against Lancaster Snyder was invincible and at all times held his opponents safe. They made six hits off him, but in only one inning did they get more than one, and that was after the locals had obtained a good safe lead. The home team, on the other hand, took most kindly to Martin's delivery and during the nine innings made thirteen hits. They began in the first inning, when a base on balls, Justice's sacrifice hit, two-lagers by Purcell and Doyle, Wagner's single and Kunkle's error netted four runs. Thereafter the locals never extended themselves. There was a mixture of good and very bad baseball during the game, with no particularly enlivening features. The score:

The final score was 6 to 3 for the Wehrle team. The batteries were, for the Lawyers, Collier and Dawson, for the Lawyers, Collier and Dawson. For the Lawyers, Collier and Dawson. ## CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON

CURED TO STAY CURED.

If your blood has been poisoned with any hereditary or acquired disease you are never cured until the virus is completely out of your system. Do not trust to family doctors, patent medicines, blood purifiers, mercury and potassium. They will never cure you—only make you worse. Have you blotches, eruptions, itching, pimples, boils, or any other skin disease? If so, you need a cure. I CAN CURE YOU.

MY IMPROVED METHOD OF TREATMENT
is the result of 30 years of experience in the cure of thousands of cases of Blood Poison. If you are cured you will never get it again. My charges are so moderate that you will willingly pay for valuable services. There is no one else in the world who can cure you in this manner.

THE STORY OF A WONDERFUL CURE:
Dr. J. M. Kerr—I had been suffering for over 20 years with Contagious Blood Poisoning, and had become thoroughly discouraged, having received no relief from a number of other physicians who had treated me. Seeing your advertisement I at once decided to try you. At that time my body was a mass of ulcers, my limbs swollen to twice their normal size, and I was unable to walk without assistance. That was the 8th of April, 1903, and now on the 27th of June, less than three months, my ulcers have all disappeared, the swelling is gone, and I am on my feet and suffering from no ill effects from your treatment. I would earnestly advise any one who is suffering from a blood disease to try your services. Yours very gratefully, E. W. RUSSEAU, 1546 River St., Detroit, Mich.

THE COURTS

TWO MORE PETITIONS FILED IN SAVINGS BANK CASE

Ask That Receiver Be Ordered to Pay Certain Sums of Money—Really Transfers—Notes

Attorneys Fulton & Fulton filed two intervening petitions Saturday in the case of L. P. Schaun vs. The Newark Savings Bank Company. One is in favor of the Home Sand Box company and asks for $238.25, the other in favor of the National Cash Register company for $14.90. Both petitions allege that the Newark Savings Bank company made drafts on the Hanover National bank of New York for the amounts specified, and that payment was refused on account of the Newark bank going into the hands of a receiver. That the Newark Savings Bank had the money to pay these drafts on deposit with the Hanover National bank, and that Receiver Taafel, since his appointment, has drawn the money, which is now in his hands. Petitioners ask the court to order said receiver to pay them the amounts specified.

QUIGLEY

Who is Well Known in Newark. Is Made Manager of A. G. Field's Minstrel Show.

"Doc" Quigley has been appointed by A. G. Field to manage the minstrels next season.

The minstrels were, without a manager owing to the resignation of J. K. Kane. Applications were received from New York and various other points for the position. W. W. Freeman of Chicago was in Columbus last week in the interest of a young man who is manager of a prominent theatre in Chicago. Mr. Field gave all the applicants considerable attention and after looking over the various persons who desired the position, he dismissed them all. Quigley was called into the office and informed that he had been promoted to the management of the company and that a handsome raise of salary went with the promotion.

Doc Quigley is a Columbus man, and comes from a theatrical family. He is modest in his ways, decided, forceful and intelligent. Sixteen years ago next September a tall, slim and delicate looking youth applied to A. G. Field for a position in his company. Mr. Field's first question was "What can you do." The young man modestly replied, "I can learn to do anything. I am not afraid of work." A position was given him as call boy and to look after the transportation of the trunks to and from the theatre. Four weeks later when the minstrel show left Columbus the young man was on the stage in a dancing act. The following season he had advanced to a full-fledged performer. A year or so later he had developed into one of the leading eccentric dancers on the American stage and was dubbed "the man with the comedy legs."

IN OVERALLS

President Stillman's Son Works Like Any Ordinary Baggage Smasher—Is Learning the Business.

San Francisco, Cal., July 2.—Among the men who struggle with trunks and baggage that comes and goes with the trains over at the Sixteenth street station in Oakland, is Charles Chauncey Stillman, son of James Stillman, New York banker, Wall street operator and one of the biggest multi-millionaires in the land. Young Stillman already owns about $6,000,000 in his own name, and there are only two sisters to share with him some day the $40,000,000 his father is reputed to have.

The scion of one of New York's wealthiest and most prominent families wants to learn the railroad business. There is nothing freakish about his becoming a baggage smasher. On the contrary, he is a quiet, very earnest young man, filled with a worthy ambition to become a thoroughly trained railroad man, and he prepared to take charge of the vast transportation interests of his father. He has set out to gain practical experience in every branch of the business, and before he became baggage man he spent several weeks at a truck, worked as a janitor and handy man about a depot in Northern California.

Stillman enjoys no privileges, but does overalls and does his share of work as an ordinary employee of the Southern Pacific.

Atlantic City, N. J., the most popular of the hundred or more resorts along the Atlantic Coast, is pronounced the finest watering place in the world. This great American Seashore Resort has kept pace with the times and prospered. The hotels have grown in number and size. Prosperity and popularity are with it.

The surf bathing which has made Atlantic City famous is one of the wonders of the world. The sight during bathing hours defies description; men, women and children in bathing costumes of varied hues form a picture to be seen only at Atlantic City.

Aside from the seaside features, Atlantic City has amusements of every kind. Great iron piers extend hundreds of feet into the ocean. Each pier has its summer theater and band stands, and for a nominal price one can enjoy the comfortable chairs of the pier and listen to the music of the bands throughout the entire day, if he so will it.

The proximity of Atlantic City to all the big central and western cities, by reason of the excellent through train service of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, makes it the resort of the masses. Tickets will be available on all regular trains, and will be good for return twelve days, including date of sale, thus giving ample time for an enjoyable outing. # The Border War For Freedom

Wyoming Valley, Minisink, Cherry Valley and Oriskany

By SEATON LORD

[Copyright, 1904, by American Press Association.]

ON the 3d and 4th of July, 1778, occurred the Wyoming massacre, one of the most sanguinary conflicts of the war of the Revolution, and one which has been joined in history with the massacres of Cherry Valley and Minisink because of the dreadful part played therein by the red skinned allies of the invader. The Wyoming valley, lying along the north branch of the Susquehanna river, in Luzerne county, the garden spot of Pennsylvania, was first opened by pioneers from Connecticut, who bought the land from the Indians. These men were either massacred or driven away by the red men, and shortly afterward the same lands were bought from the Indians by Pennsylvanians. Almost simultaneously with the arrival of the Pennsylvanians came another band of men from Connecticut, and the controversy over the possession of this beautiful valley raged for many years. When the war for independence broke out, the Connecticut claimants to ownership of the valley were in possession. Five times had they been driven out by the Pennsylvania claimants and each time they returned. The dispute over the lands was awaiting settlement at the hands of George III. and his council, but in the meantime, believing in the maxim that "possession is nine points of the law," the claimants fought fiercely for the soil.

THAYENDANEGRA, OTHERWISE KNOWN AS JOSEPH BRANT.

The scene changed when Boston became the center of the struggle for independence. The Connecticut Yankees had raised two independent military companies for the valley's defense, owing to the menacing attitude of the Indians and Tories, who were plotting treason at Niagara, but when congress adjourned hastily from Philadelphia to Baltimore, its last act was to order the Wyoming valley soldiers to the assistance of Washington, who was then in desperate straits. The patriotic Yankees of Wyoming responded, sent forward their stalwart defenders to the assistance of Washington and left their own homes unprotected.

At that very time another Pennsylvania expedition into the valley under the notorious Plunkett was actually set in motion with the connivance of Governor John Penn and invaded the valley with a flotilla and army of 700 men. They were met and defeated at the entrance to the valley by Captain Zebulon Butler and a miscellaneous force of 300 men and boys armed with antiquated guns, scythes and farming implements.

A desperate British soldier named Major John Butler with his "rangers" had crossed from Canada to New York and there fraternized with the leaders of the Six Nations, who had espoused the cause of Burgoyne. After Burgoyne's defeat those Indians were free for other service, and John Butler organized them for a descent upon Wyoming. The terrified settlers appealed to congress to send back the two independent companies organized for their defense, but no heed was paid to their cry for help. Several officers and men, in response to the entreaties of their loved ones, did rush back to the valley. Captain Zebulon Butler, then a colonel of the Connecticut line, among the number. But the force was still inadequate to cope with the menace. The British leader, Major John Butler, had 2,000 fighting men in his army of invasion. Two-thirds of these were Indians led by Queen Esther, an amazon of the Senecas, who ruled in barbaric state on her plantation near Tioga Point.

On the morning of the 3d of July, 1778, Major John Butler of the British forces sent a messenger to Colonel Zebulon Butler demanding the surrender of the valley. Colonel Zebulon Butler refused and on the afternoon of the same day, about 3 o'clock, marched out of Fort Fort at the head of 400 patriots, mostly old men and boys, to drive back the invader. The devoted Little Yankee band bravely attacked Major John Butler's white contingent and was driving it back when suddenly the painted savages, with spear tomahawk and death maul, surrounded the valley's devoted little band of defenders and defeated them. There were six Wyoming companies, but all the captains and lieutenants were killed, and some were tortured before death ended their sufferings. Colonel Zebulon Butler and Nathan Denison were the only American officers who survived the bloody fight.

After the battle ensued the massacre, one of the most thrilling and ferocious Indian orgies on record. Only a few escaped. Some of the fugitives fled to the river and were tomahawked in the flood. Others escaped to Monocacy island, in midstream, and were overtaken and brought back for torture. That night a thousand homes were put to the torch, and the conflagration lighted the valley for twenty miles.

The settlers were subjected to the worst tortures that the fiendish Indian mind could devise. Around a rock the prisoners were placed, each held by two Indians. Queen Esther killed thirty victims. The scene of this atrocity is still known as Queen Esther's rock. Hundreds of women perished in the wilderness now known as the Pocomo mountains and one of the most popular mountain resorts of the summer season. Somewhere in that region should arise a monument to commemorate the sufferings and sacrifices of those Connecticut women who died for country.

When the Indian carnage was at its height, Major John Butler was appealed to to prevent it, but he said he was powerless, and there can be no doubt of it. The savage horde had got beyond his control. He was so terrified by the excesses of his allies that, on the second day, under pretense of receiving orders to return to Niagara, he left the valley. His Indian contingent accompanied him, but the work of desolation was complete. A monument containing the names of those who fell here stands where the victims were buried, opposite Wilkesbarre.

For a time in England the story of Wyoming had a great vogue, mainly through the influence of Campbell's noble poem, "Gertrude of Wyoming," and at the head of the plain stands an imperishable natural monument to the poet in the shape of a great cliff, which lifts its bold front above the Susquehanna as it is known as Campbell's ledge. This rugged formation was known to the pioneers as Din's rock, because during certain summer months the sun's shadow on the face of the cliff indicated noon, and then the farmers rested for their midday meal.

Despite the beauty of Campbell's splendid poem, it is full of solecisms and anachronisms. He knew no more about this remote region than did Moore about the valley of Kashmir when he perpetrated his famous oriental dream, but he had heard the dreadful story of the massacre, of the woeful plight of the stricken settlers, of the ruthless conduct of the merciless savages, and his fine appeal to the emotions helped to give worldwide fame to Wyoming.

Campbell erred in making Joseph Brant, the great Mohawk chief Thayendanegea, the leader of the savages who ravaged the Wyoming valley, for, while that splendid but soulless barbarian whom Campbell pictures thus,

AFTER THE BATTLE ENSUED THE MASSACRE

"The mammoth comes, the foe, the monster Brant, with all his howling, desolating band," shared in the horrors of Cherry Valley and Minisink and fought against the gallant Herkimer at Oriskany, he was not with John Butler at Wyoming. Brant and Walter Butler led 600 Indians and 200 Tories and British in the attack on Cherry Valley, in Otsego county, N. Y., on the 11th of November, 1778. This peaceful settlement of the Mohawk valley was mercilessly exterminated. Sixteen of the small garrison and thirty of the inhabitants, including women and children, were killed in the attack, while seventy-one were carried off, most of them to die by torture. Nearly all the buildings of the village were burned. This massacre was perhaps more awful than that of Wyoming in that at Wyoming the victims were mainly soldiers, while at Cherry Valley noncombatant women and children were indiscriminately slaughtered. It would have been better for Brant's reputation had he been at Wyoming rather than at Cherry Valley.

On the 19th of July, 1778, Brant made a descent with a force of one-third whites and two-thirds Indians, variously estimated at from 90 to 100, on the village of Minisink, in Orange county, N. Y., on the Walkill river, and utterly destroyed it, massacring at least thirty persons of both sexes.

Brant was the leader in many other bloody raids, but it was at the battle of Oriskany in Herkimer county, N. Y., Aug. 6, 1777, that his tomahawk claimed its greatest number of victims. Colonel Peter Gansvoort of the patriot army was besieged in Fort Schuyler, previously and afterward known as Fort Stanwix, on the site of Rome, N. Y., by a large force of British, Tories and Indians under Colonel St. Leger, who was on his way from Canada to effect a junction with the army of Burgoyne. Eight hundred American militiamen under the old Dutch general, Nicholas Herkimer, were marching to the relief of the fort when his force was ambushed at Oriskany by Brant and Sir John Johnson. The battle which followed was one of the most desperate ever fought. The loss on both sides was more than one-third of the total force, and though the Americans finally repulsed the enemy, General Herkimer received a wound from which he died a few days later. The credit of arranging this ambush has always been given to Brant.

The battle of Oriskany, however, so crippled St. Leger's force that the approach of Benedict Arnold with another army forced him to raise the siege of Fort Schuyler and return to Canada, leaving Burgoyne to his fate.

After the war was over Brant, who had received a fair education at Dr. Eleazar Wheelock's school at Lebanon, Conn., became an Episcopalian missionary to the Mohawks and translated the Prayer Book and parts of the New Testament into their language. Subsequently he visited England, where he made influential friends, and with money raised during that visit he built the first Episcopal church erected in upper Canada. He died in 1807 on his estate at the head of Lake Ontario, where, on lands given to him by the king, he had built a handsome residence. Historians friendly to Brant have united in declaring that he was the greatest Indian of whom we have any knowledge and assert that despite his dreadful work in the war for independence he was generally kind to captives and opposed torture, though they admit that he frequently sanctioned putting prisoners to death on the grounds of policy.

AMERICAN BOY A TRUE PATRIOT

By CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW

THE proudest day of my life was when I first participated as a principal in the Fourth of July. I had looked for years with awe at the orator as he rode in the open barouche in the procession. I had listened to him with reverential attention. The day came when I sat in the back seat, on the right hand side of the carriage, as the orator of the day, and when I stood upon the platform and spoke the old familiar truths. I thought ambition had culminated and nothing more in life was left to be attained.

There is not a liberal sentiment where civilization is known that is not quickened on the Fourth of July. It reaches the but of the peasant, and it enters the tent of the conscript. The one says, "There is for me and for my children something better than this but." The other says, "Why should I fight to uphold thrones and cut the throat of my brother to maintain caste and privilege?"

The Fourth of July lifts the thoughts, the aspirations, the prayers of the people of all countries to higher planes of living, thinking and dying. Why, it is a university, a college, a high school, a common school—it is a liberal education in patriotism and manhood.

The Fourth of July immortalizes Cromwell in Westminster abbey after kings have hung his bones on the gibbet. It fills the proudest panel in the proudest legislative hall in the world—the house of lords—with the picture of the landing of the pilgrims. The Fourth of July created the French republic and was the force with which it broke the power of imperialism, of monarchy, of Boulangerism, of anarchy and communism, and perpetuated the republic's life.

All hail the glorious Fourth! Let us keep true to the conditions of the Fourth of July. Let us defy the memories of Washington, of Hamilton, of Jefferson, of Roger Sherman, of Oliver Ellsworth, of John Hancock, of the two Adamses, of Schuyler and of Greene. Let us take new hope, new strength, from each recurring celebration. Let grateful nations for unnumbered generations proclaim what the Fourth of July is, what it means, what it has done. Let our own people march down the ages in each century, gathering larger fruits from the lessons of this day, with the Bible for their guide in morals and conduct, the constitution for their text book of liberty and government, and the flag for their symbol of patriotism and of liberty, of faith and of good works.

LODGE NEWS

Odd Fellows.

The Odd Fellows have closed their deal for the Kasson lot and also made arrangements with T. P. Hoover to lease for 99 years the second story of the adjoining room, and will therefore own and have for rent the first story where Fred Stevens' pool room was formerly conducted, and have a lodge room 42x50 feet.—Johnstown Independent.

Independent Order of Foresters.

The Independent Order of Foresters held an open meeting at their hall in the Amkele block, Tuesday night, for the purpose of getting better acquainted with their members and members' friends. A fine musical program was rendered by the Imperial Orchestra, a new local organization, also by Miss Eleanor Place in illustrated songs, with Miss Irene Hawthorne as accompanist; Mr. Charles Daly, cornet soloist, and Mr. Frank Wright, with his entertainment, consisting of sunlight views, etc. Mr. L. F. Dowden gave an interesting talk on the history and growth of the order, after which the audience repaired to the dining room and were served with ice cream and cake. The crowd dispersed at 11 p. m., all declaring that they had had a very pleasant evening. The Imperial orchestra, under the management of Mr. Frank Mitchell, is deserving of special mention, as they furnish music of a very superior order. Following is the personnel:

Frank Mitchell, violin; Ray Penick, cello; Ray Cobel, cornet; George Freil, piano; Al Gruber, trap drummer. Miss Eleanor Place has a sweet soprano voice and was very ably accompanied by Miss Hawthorne.

Mr. Charles Daly played a cornet solo very creditably.

Mr. Wright's sunlight views were highly appreciated and were considered to be as good as ever produced in the city.

Masonic.

initiated with imposing ceremonies. The Columbus delegation was met at the Zanesville depot by the Zavi Mystic Shrine club and the procession was formed at 12:40 o'clock. The formation was: Platoon of 23 police officers; Bauer's band; Zavi club of Zanesville. 29 candidates in line; Aladdin Arab Patrol and the Columbus Shrine. The formation of the candidates was original and comical. Mayors Deacon and Pemberton, of Zanesville, and Roseville, led the candidates. They were seated in a pony wagon. To the rear of the vehicle was attached a long cable rope, to which the remaining number of candidates held fast. Among the candidates were C. M. Thompson and Frank Felix, two sons of the Deseret. Channing had the matter under consideration and Frank thought he had a little too much starch before they got through with the initiation.

The initiative services were started in Memorial hall early Thursday afternoon, and until 7 o'clock Thursday evening the initiations continued, during which time the candidates were escorted across the hot sands. Immediately after the initiation ceremonies all members repaired to the Clarendon hotel, where Noble Jusk served all with a banquet dinner. A novel menu card in the form of the red Arab cap of a Shrine had been prepared for the occasion. The affair closed with a grand vaudeville entertainment and all had a fine time.

CLAIMS

AGAINST NEWARK SAVINGS BANK ARE BEING SOLD

At Fifty Cents on the Dollar—Many Are Sold—Many Refuse to Sell at That Price.

A firm from Cleveland that is represented by Attorney Wayne Collier, is buying a number of the claims against the defunct Newark Savings bank. The price paid is 50 cents on the dollar and a large number of depositors have sold their claims on this basis.

Still other depositors believe that the bank will pay out dollar for dollar, and are not only holding their claims, but are advising others not to sell for the price quoted.

TAKE CHARGE OF BONDS.

Receiver W. G. Taafel said Saturday morning that he would take charge of the perpetual bond given by Cashier Lingafelter and also one given by Assistant Cashier John B. Moore, both of which were assets of the bank. Mr. Taafel said, however, that the men whose names appeared on the bond had requested him not to make their names public, and for that reason he did not show the bonds to the reporter.

The Lingafelter bond is said to be signed by sixteen Newark men, a number of the men being among the most prominent in the city.

AUDITORIUM

E. T. JOHNSON AND C. E. MATTHEWS ELECTED MANAGERS.

Trustees Did Not Accept Mr. Fulton's Proposition—New Member Sworn In—Mr. Homer Re-elected.

A regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Memorial Building was held Friday evening, six of the seven members being present, at which the principal business was the selection of a manager of the Auditorium theatre.

Mr. Harry Fulton had been elected and had submitted a proposition which the Board could not see its way clear to accept and the election for manager in his stead proceeded. The trustees present were Messrs. Dan L. Jones, Edward Kibler, Geo. A. Ball, Judge Rees, M. D. Hartshorn and H. C. Hostwick. It very soon developed that the contest for the position lay between Messrs. E. T. Johnson and C. E. Matthews on the one side, and Messrs. W. D. Harris and Joe Miller on the other. On the first ballot Messrs. Johnson and Matthews received three votes, Harris and Miller two, and O. C. Jones one.

The second ballot stood three for Harris and Miller, two for Johnson and Matthews, and one for O. C. Jones. The third, fourth and fifth ballots resulted alike, three each for Johnson and Matthews and Harris and Miller. On the sixth ballot Messrs. Johnson and Matthews received four votes and were declared elected.

Judge S. M. Hunter was absent from the meeting on account of illness. Mr. Henry C. Bostwick, the new member recently appointed, presented his commission and was sworn in to take the place of Mr. W. J. Henderson, who has been secretary of the Board for some time. Mr. Dan L. Jones was appointed secretary temporarily.

Mr. Louis Homer was again elected superintendent of the building.

Other routine business was transacted and the board adjourned. Reference to the new Auditorium management appears in another column.

AT ONCE

MANAGERS WILL BEGIN BOOK FOR COMING SEASON.

Mr. Johnson Expects to Go to New York the Coming Week—Good Theater Season Promised.

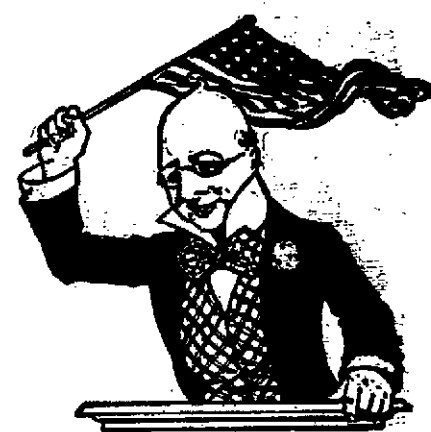

Messrs. Ernest T. Johnson and Charles E. Matthews, who were Friday night elected managers of the Auditorium theatre, will at once begin the work of booking shows for the coming season. Mr. Johnson stated Saturday morning that he would probably go to New York next week for this purpose. It will be his purpose to get the best possible attractions for the Auditorium.

Both the new managers are well known in Newark and are well equipped to make a successful showing in the management of the theatre. Mr. Johnson is proprietor of the Johnson drug store on the East Side, while Mr. Matthews is local manager of the Ohio State Journal branch office and is a well-known news writer of the city.

They will use good judgment in booking for the coming season and may be relied upon to give the patrons of the theatre their money's worth. Messrs. Johnson and Matthews are receiving the congratulations of many friends over their election.
